Love . . . Rejoices with the Truth

Today's gospel continues Jesus' first preaching in the synagogue in Nazareth. We hear repeated Jesus' proclamation, "Today this Scripture passage is fulfilled in your hearing," and "all spoke highly of him." This good news, which undoubtedly caused great anticipation and enthusiasm, would soon be eclipsed by the warning Jesus would give. Although Jesus came bringing the fulfillment of the Father's promises, the people were only ready for the fruit of these promises and not the hard work necessary to receive the fruit.

What precipitates the Lord's warning is the townspeople's objections even as they marvel at the "gracious words that came from his mouth." Whether Jesus' words and promise seemed too good to be true or that jealousy began to arise in some because this man, after all, was just like them and no better, they began to find reason to deflect and resist the possibility that God was about to do something extraordinary through this 'son of the carpenter Joseph.' To believe, accept, and change their mindset and perspective in the light of this new teacher was too much for them.

As some begin to raise objections, Jesus compares them to previous, wicked generations in Israel's history. This is what causes the whole synagogue to rise up in fury. The Lord seems to disregard the maxim — 'Flattery will get you everything' — and instead begins to preach that 'the Truth will set you free.' Sadly some prefer the good feelings that flattery provide rather than the freedom that truth opens up.

Thus, Saint Paul's words today about the nature of love become even more important as we walk the path of discipleship. The more and more we experience deepening conversion and Divine Love renews us, then we will always seek the good of the other, which is what true Love does, instead of what will make us feel better or make us more acceptable to others. This week, may we follow the path of love.

Fr. Allan F. Wolfe

Amor . . . Se regocija con la Verdad

El evangelio de hoy continúa la primera predicación de Jesús en la sinagoga de Nazaret. Escuchamos repetidamente la proclamación de Jesús: "Hoy mismo se ha cumplido este pasaje de la Escritura que acaban de oír", y "Todos le daban su aprobación". Esta buena noticia, que sin duda causó gran expectación y entusiasmo, pronto sería eclipsada por la advertencia que daría Jesús. Aunque Jesús vino trayendo el cumplimiento de las promesas del Padre, la gente solo estaba lista para el fruto de estas promesas y no para el arduo trabajo necesario para recibir el fruto.

Lo que precipita la advertencia del Señor son las objeciones de la gente del pueblo, incluso cuando se maravillan de las "la sabiduría de las palabras que salían de sus labios". Ya sea que las palabras y la promesa de Jesús parecían demasiado buenas para ser verdad o que los celos comenzaron a surgir en algunos porque este hombre, después de todo, era como ellos y no mejor, comenzaron a encontrar razones para desviar y resistir la posibilidad de que Dios estaba cerca hacer algo extraordinario a través de este 'hijo del carpintero José' Creer, aceptar y cambiar su mentalidad y perspectiva a la luz de este nuevo maestro fue demasiado para ellos.

A medida que algunos comienzan a presentar objeciones, Jesús los compara con generaciones anteriores malvadas en la historia de Israel. Esto es lo que hace que toda la sinagoga se levante con furia. El Señor parece ignorar la máxima: "La adulación te dará todo" y, en cambio, comienza a predicar que "la verdad te hará libre". Lamentablemente, algunos prefieren los buenos sentimientos que proporciona la adulación en lugar de la libertad que abre la verdad.

Por lo tanto, las palabras de San Pablo hoy sobre la naturaleza del amor se vuelven aún más importantes a medida que caminamos por el camino del discipulado. Cuanto más experimentemos una conversión más profunda y el Amor Divino nos renueve, entonces buscaremos siempre el bien del otro, que es lo que hace el Amor verdadero, en lugar de lo que nos hará sentir mejor o nos hará más aceptables para los demás. Esta semana, que sigamos el camino del amor. P Allan F. Wolfe
